

SHARES/ESIL LECTURE

Individual and Collective Responsibility of States for acts of International Organizations

by James Crawford

19 September 2013 (17:00-19:00)

Professor James Crawford will give a SHARES / ESIL lecture on the occasion of the publication of his new book State Responsibility. The General Part (Cambridge University Press 2013).

About the book

James Crawford's critical, in-depth review of the responsibility of states for acts contrary to international law also examines issues of dispute settlement in relation to responsibility and the connection between institutions and rules. It reflects both the work of the ILC (led by Crawford) and the numerous subsequent developments.

About Professor Crawford

James Crawford SC, FBA is Whewell Professor of International Law, University of Cambridge, and concurrently Research Professor of Law, Latrobe University. He was the first Australian member of the UN International Law Commission and in that capacity was responsible for the ILC's work on the International Criminal Court (1994) and for the second reading of the ILC Articles on State Responsibility (2001). In addition to scholarly work on statehood, collective rights, investment law and international responsibility, he has appeared in over 40 cases before the ICJ and other international tribunals, and is engaged as expert, counsel and arbitrator in international arbitration. In 2012, he was awarded the Hudson Medal by the American Society of International Law.

The lecture will be followed by discussion and drinks.
