

CAMBRIDGE

20% discount with this flyer

Expires 28 February 2015

Principles of Shared Responsibility in International Law

An Appraisal of the State of the Art

Edited by André Nollkaemper
Universiteit van Amsterdam
and Ilias Plakokefalos
Universiteit van Amsterdam

The Shared Responsibility in International Law series examines the underexplored problem of allocation of responsibilities among multiple states and other actors. The International Law Commission, in its work on state responsibility and the responsibility of international organisations, recognised that attribution of acts to one state or organisation does not exclude possible attribution of the same act to another state or organisation, but has provided limited guidance on allocation or reparation. From the new perspective of shared responsibility, this volume reviews the main principles of the law of international responsibility as laid down in the Articles on State Responsibility and the Articles on Responsibility of International Organizations, such as attribution of conduct, breach, circumstances precluding wrongfulness and reparation. It explores the potential and limitations of current international law in dealing with questions of shared responsibility in areas such as military operations and international environmental law.

- Provides lawyers familiar with the basics of the law of responsibility with an understanding of how the principles of responsibility can be applied in the increasingly important and hitherto unexplored context of multiple wrongdoing
- Provides lawyers and policy makers dealing with international cooperation with information relating to a variety of areas, including military operations, international environmental law and refugee law
- Contains critical reflections on the limits of the law of responsibility, for example its neglect of the public and private dimensions of responsibility and its emphasis on uniformity over differentiation

Shared Responsibility in International Law, 1

December 2014 228 x 152 mm 400pp 1 table

	Original price	Discount price
Hardback	£75.00	£60.00	978-1-107-07851-2
	€94.50	€75.60

To receive your discount go to www.cambridge.org/Principles2015 or enter Principles2015 at the checkout.

Cambridge University Press, The Edinburgh Building, Cambridge CB2 8RU, UK

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS